

Sinclair Broadcasting is forcing their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. This is one of the dangers of mega-media gone amuk.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy.

This action shows why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
